

ANOTHER VICTIM OF AUTOMOBILE

Miss Annie Kenan, Who Was Hurt in the Flagler Auto Accident, Is Dying.

ROCK THROWING AT TRAINS

The Supreme Court Takes Up the Question of Its Application to Street Cars.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RALEIGH, N. C., April 16.—Colonel Thomas S. Kenan, clerk of the Supreme Court, has been called to the bedside of his sister, Miss Annie Kenan, at Kenansville, for whose recovery no hope is entertained. She was injured in an accident to the automobile of Henry M. Flagler in Wilmington about a year ago. She is Mrs. Flagler's aunt and who has been an invalid ever since the accident, despite the best and most expert medical attention the country affords.

Does the act of the Legislature, providing punishment for throwing stones into railroad cars, apply to street cars? is a question which comes before the Supreme Court in a case, State vs. Reid Martin, from Forsythe county, to-morrow. The question will also be raised as to whether an electric car is personal property. The defense will contend that it is not personal property, and that the act as to throwing stones at railroad cars does not apply either. Attorney-General Gilmer will argue the case for the State.

The Amalgamated Construction and Supply Company, of Lexington, is chartered, with $50,000 capital, to do a general building and builders' supply business, the incorporators being Thomas Williams and others.

Another charter is to the Granite Over-all and Shirt Company, of Mount Airy, capital $50,000, by W. J. Byrly, J. A. Hladley and others.

At the Church of the Good Shepherd yesterday there was a special Easter offering of $1,800 for the building fund for the splendid new granite church in course of construction. Bonds secured by the church property will be issued for an amount sufficient to supplement the fund for the completion of the church, the work to be pushed without further interruption. It will cost $50,000. The walls are almost ready for the roof now.

At the Tabernacle Baptist Church Sunday afternoon the ordinance of baptism was administered to thirty persons, one of the candidates being T. C. Bailey, postmaster of Raleigh. The pastor announced that there will be administrations of the ordinance each afternoon of this week except Monday evening, there being more than one hundred candidates for admission to the church by baptism.

A COWARDLY ATTACK.

Boys Turn an Electric Car Loose and Do Much Damage.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

SPENCER, N. C., April 16.—Miss Ada Shiver, of Cabarrus county, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. R. A. Sapp, in this place, was the victim on Saturday night of a cowardly attack by unknown parties, who threw a Coca-Cola bottle into her room, striking her in the neck, inflicting slight injuries and knocking a lamp from her hand. The deed was committed at a late hour, and followed the arrest of Edward Kennedy and E. Weber, of Baltimore, who were stopping at the boarding house of the Sapp family. The arrest was made on the charge of disorderly conduct, the two men having climbed upon a porch roof and threw a bucket of cold water through a window upon William Herrion, also of Baltimore, who was sleeping in the room. The parties who made the attack upon Miss Shiver escaped. All of the parties recently came to Spencer from Baltimore and are strangers here.

SALISBURY, N. C., April 16.—Yesterday afternoon a crowd of boys climbed upon a passenger car of the Salisbury-Spencer Street Railway Company, which was standing on a siding on a street in this place, and turned off the current, starting the car towards the sheds of the company at a high rate of speed, and jumped off. The car crashed into the walls of the building with terrific force, knocking out forty feet of the brick wall and badly damaging the car. The identity of the guilty persons is unknown.

DR. MATHEWS FREE.

Will Spend Few Days Here Before Going to a Sanitarium.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

From there he goes to a Baltimore sanitarium for treatment of the morphia habit.

His appeal to the Supreme Court will not be heard before October.

THE BLACKBURN TRIAL ATTRACTS NOTABLES

Judge Goff to Preside and Judge L. L. Lewis to Prosecute.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 16.—The trial of Congressman Blackburn in the United States Court here for alleged violation of the statute prohibiting congressmen from practicing before government departments for remuneration begins to-morrow. Already a large number of important persons are here, among those arriving to-night being Circuit Judge Nathan Goff, who presides at the trial, District Attorney L. L. Lewis, of Richmond, who prosecutes, assisted by Special Assistant Attorney Britt, of Asheville. District Attorney Holton also arrived from Winston.

Among important government witnesses who arrived are Commissioner John W. Yerkes, from Washington, collector of Western North Carolina District Harkins, of Asheville, and Collector Duncan, of the Eastern District. The hotels are filled with other witnesses or prominent Republican politicians attracted by the element of factional politics represented by Blackburn's attitude in opposition to the reappointment of third-terms to Federal offices.

Judge Boyd left last night for Statesville and is holding his regular term of the District Court there this week.

FREIGHT WRECK.

My a Mistake of Orders Engine Runs Into Train.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WELDON, N. C., April 16.—An engine and caboose plunged into a freight train at Ruggles's siding on the Atlantic Coast Line this morning twelve miles south of here, wrecking several cars and blocking the main line.

All trains to-day have been running via Scotland Neck and Hazelwood.

The wreck was caused by a mistake in orders; but the responsibility is not yet plain. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt, the engineer and fireman escaping with slight bruises.

Easter Reception.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., April 16.—The Twin-City Club's Easter reception here to-night was one of the most brilliant and successful social functions ever given in this city. It was attended by hundreds of society representatives from various sections in North Carolina and Virginia. Dancing was still in progress until after midnight.

FARMERS IN FEUD.

One Dead and Another Dying As Result of Georgia Shooting.

(By Associated Press.)

AUGUSTA, GA., April 16.—A special to the Chronicle from Gibson, Ga., says: John Carroll was to-day shot and killed and his brother seriously wounded by Thos. H. Huff. All are farmers and well known. The trouble was of long standing and consisted mainly of a personal feud. Huff claims to have been attacked with knives by the two Carrolls and he also received several stab wounds, none of which were serious.

Two Were Killed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BLAUVELD, W. VA., April 16.—A shot blew out in the Hemp Hill Mine near Welch, to-day, igniting a keg of powder. A terrific explosion followed. Antonio Tipical, an Italian miner, was killed instantly, and two other men were heavily burned and bruised.

The injured were taken to the Miners' Hospital at Welch. They will die.

Struck By Train.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Book News And Reviews

In "The Challenge" (Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis) Warren Cheney returns to the same out-of-the-way field which he interestingly opened up in "The Way of the North." Both of these books treat vigorously of the life of the Russians in Alaska. "The Challenge" shows that Mr. Cheney has lost none of the ability and graphic skill which he displayed in the earlier book. It deals largely with the love affairs of a young Russian, Ivan Ekarovitch, who has to overcome many obstacles and pass through not a few adventures before he finally wins to happiness. Michael Ziolk, the officer in charge of the post, also figures largely. Mikhail has one of his men shot as a disciplinary matter, and the father of the dead man, who is a wild-eyed priest, practically drives the officer to his grave with spells and curses. Russian superstition is also brought out in the mysteriously moved Lilian Day, where so many good men lost their lives. An ably written story, with much in it to commend.

The Book and News Dealer reports that there were twenty-four different titles reported during the twelve months of 1905 as of the best selling books for the entire country.

It is a striking fact that every book on the list is a work of fiction. And of the fiction, novels of character drawing are vastly in the lead, with thirteen titles to their credit. The other classifications stand: Political and Sociological, four; Historical, three; Novels of Travel, two; Detective Stories and Miscellaneous, one each.

From the standpoint of the publishers, the following will be of interest. The twenty-four successful titles published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company were: The Bobbs-Merrill Company, the Century Company, Dodd-Mead, F. A. Stokes and Henry Holt, two each; and Revell, Houghton-Mifflin, Macmillan, Little-Brown, Appleton, McClurg, and Doubleday-Page, one each.

The final analysis of these figures develops perhaps the most interesting fact of all, that the largest number of "best sellers" was sold by the most extensive advertisers. The Bobbs-Merrill Company. "In the face of these figures," asks The Book and News Dealer, "who shall say that advertising does not create a demand?"

The International Cook Book that Doubleday-Page and Company have published this week is by Alexandra Filippini. It contains 3,500 recipes arranged in diary form, with a menu for each meal of every day throughout the year. Mr. Filippini was for many years a superintendant of a hotel in Rome, and after that was connected with the International Mercantile Marine Company. In order to gather the material for this work, he made a journey around the world with letters from Secretary of State John Hay and others, to the various American consulates. The book, which has never before been published in English, contains recipes of every country, and the book contains scores of dishes drawn from Turkey, India, Russia, Holland, and so on, in the directions for the food. Beneath each recipe is given a very straightforward and simple, but complete, description of how to prepare everything it calls for. One interesting feature of the book is that it is adapted for families and that the menus are arranged for the food that is in season.

The average description of how a hand at cards should be played is usually difficult to follow because of its abstractness. R. F. Foster, in his book, "Foster's Complete Bridge," renders the student's mental labor as light as possible by making his explanations concrete by clever diagrams. The book contains fifty-two illustrative hands, so arranged that the reader can clearly follow each play as the author notes it. In addition to making it easy for the student to understand the advice given, these diagrams also assist him to remember by bringing to bear his visual memory.

Those who have seen the advance sheets of William Allen White's new book, "The Town," have enthusiastically exclaimed, "An American Barrie." This recognition is all the more remarkable because of a recent letter from the author to his publishers, McClure-Phillips & Co., in which he says that he had tried in the book to do for a Kansas town what Barrie has done for a Scottish town in "The House of Bernardine." It is through "A Window in 'The Town'" that the editor of the local daily looks out upon life of the bustling little city. It is generally known that Mr. White is himself the editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

Instead of waiting until autumn as was originally intended, Doubleday, Page & Co. have decided to bring out at once G. B. Lancaster's novel "The Spur." Considerable interest attaches to this book because it is the first long story by the author of the group of virile New Zealand tales entitled "Sons of Men," which caused many discriminating critics to hail Lancaster as a "new Kipling." These were stories of the New Zealand sheep herders, and developed new ground in fiction. "The Spur" has the same background. The hero is a young New Zealand sheep herder who is a literary genius. He sells his future to a man for the opportunity to prove himself. The scene shifts for a time to Samoa, where Severne, the hero, is war against the natives and where his love story begins and ends. The man to whom the hero sells himself proves a villain. It is said to be a story of unusual dramatic power, and to fulfill the promise of "Sons of Men."
